Sacred Heart: Regina Taratuta (Dolores Bruski)

Lily of the Mohawks, Saint Kateri Tekakwitha
Feast Day July 14

Tekakwitha, born in 1656 to a Christian Algonquin mother and Mohawk father, embraced a life of gentle service to others from an early age. She and her family contracted smallpox when she was a child; she was scarred from the disease and lost her family to it. Although her uncle took her in, he treated Tekakwitha as a slave. She found solace, however, in listening to the "blackrobes," or Jesuit missionaries who visited her village, and would meditate often on their teachings. At the age of 19, Tekakwitha was baptized by the Jesuits (taking the name Catherine at her baptism), and then refused marriage in order to dedicate her life to God. After death threats from the villagers because of her Catholic faith, a priest recommended she flee from her village in upstate New York to a town near Montreal. After a 200-mile journey, she received her first Communion in 1677, and served her new village by teaching prayers to children, attending daily Mass, and watching over the elderly and sick. Many healings are attributed to Kateri's intercession. She died in 1680, just before her 24th birthday.

Did you know? Kateri is...

The Mohawk form of Catherine, which she took from St. Catherine of Siena
The first Native American woman to be canonized
The patron saint of people in exile

Family Perspective

Just as Jesus received a mission today, parents accept the mission of raising a family. Parents are not alone in this exhausting and difficult mission. Today Jesus tells us "Come to me and I will give your rest."
